BY ORDER OF THE WHARFMASTER.

A Wild Fright Among the Hundred Water Squatters is the Result.

STEAMBOATS MUST HAVE SOME CHANCE

In obedience to orders issued by Wharfmaster Crawford nine shanty-boat owners have cast loose from their moorings on the Monongahela wharf and flitted to a more hospitable mooring ground, either up or down the river. There was no chance for protest or explanation. The city wanted the wharf unencumbered, and the Western Pennsylvania imitations of the Venetian gondolier had to move, and move quickly. Several of the nine offered to pay wharfage, but the city evidently desired their room and not their company.

The news that city officials had ordered the summary removal of shantyboats spread

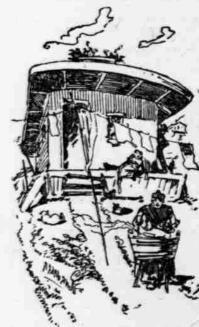

Some of the Homes That Had to Go. like wildfire among the hundred odd "watersquatters," and caused a small panic among the owners and tenants of the shanty-boats that line the banks of the three rivers. It was supposed that the order to remove would have meral application, and the scare was so inbled with emotion. Inquiry, however, developed the fact that the officials meant the order of removal to apply only to those shantyboaters who were attached like barnacies to the Monongabela wharf. The new B. & O. depot is at last completed, and the wharf is to be put in shape for use by steamboats. Wharfmaster Crawford was seen yesterday said: "The city is going to clean the wharf up for use, and it became necessary to remove the shanty boats. No, there was no trouble at all, although several shantyboaters requested to be allowed to remain and pay rent at the usual rate of $2.50 a month. Beside the fact that the boats were in the way, several of them were

A Life of Luxury, After a Fashion, filled with hard citizens of both sexes. Not a week ago the patrol wagon scooped in a highly miscellaneous collection of drouks from one of the boats we ordered to move, and one or two are supposed to do a little speak-easy business. "No, the city does not derive any considerable income from this source. From the Baltimore and Ohio new trestle clear around to the foot of Eleventh street on the Allegheny river there are now only two shantyboats, both of which pay rent at the rate of $25 a year. The two bathhouses at the Sixth street bridge are allowed their position by ordinance. Oh, no! I do not suppose that shantyboats having positions at portions of the rivers where no city whatf exists will be moiested in any way. They are not an obstruction to business, and in many instances are tenanted by decent and respectable people. There are, of course, some shantyboats which shelter tough classes, but the position occupied by the majority of the boats is easily accessible to the police."

The boats which were compelled to move nearly all went up stream a little way, and cast anchor below the Panhandle bridge. The boats presented a very motley appearance as they swung against the bank, with the placid Monongahela lapping their bulls. Some of them are very narrow, with doors and windows illed with hard cit zens of both sexes. Not a much resembling loop holes, and have the rusty, wearher-beaten appearance which long ignorance of paint entails. Others are smartly trimmed in various shades of paint, and one sports the unusual luxury of green outside window shutters. The roofs are invariably of tarred naper, and the character of the tenant is plainly indicated by the presence or absence of rubbish on the roof.

Another singular feature of shantyboat life is the evident fact that every day is washday. There are always garments hung out to dry, and the predominance of cardinal red is truly remarkable. The inmates are of all singes of cleanliness in most harmonious accord with the external appearance of the boat.

One of the most palatial shantyboats of those officially removed was towed up stream a few hundred feet until it spring a leak, when a miniature pump was forthwith rigred up and the tenant of the boat, in all the diguity of a white shirt, worked valiantly in the not sun, pumping out the water. Most of the craft met with no inopportune misfortune in the task of acquiring a new site to commence a life on the river brink without danger of being disturbed. Shanty Boat-Washday All the Week,

The Assignees of the Defunct Southside Bank Make a Statement-The Graff, lennett & Co. Failure Recalled -- Aldrich

Convicted General Court News.

J. H. Lory, H. J. Berg and L. S. Cunningham, assignees of the Farmers and Mechanics'
Bank of the Southside, yesterday filed their first and partial account of the affairs of the bank. They show the assets of the bank, inbank. They show the assets of the bank, including the appraisement of $189,477, to be $185,336. Deducting money paid out, judgments against the bank, etc., there is left for distribution $86,886. Among the items of expense was one of $4,531, the commission of the assignees at 5 per cent.

John H. Bailey, Esq., assignee of Graff, Bennett & Co., yesterday, filed his final account. He shows a balance for distribution of $185,464.

An argument was heard before Judge Over in the Orphans' Court yesterday in the case of the contested claim of the executors of the Hostetter estate for commission. Attorney Clark appeared for the Hostetter heirs and John S. Lambie and J. C. Shoemaker for Cooper and the heirs of Smith, the other executor. The executors claimed 5 per cent commission for executing the will of Dr. Hostetter, which would amount to $31,000. The Hostetter heirs opposed this, holding that 2% per cent would be sufficient commission for the work performed. The Court reserved its declaion.

Impersonating an Officer.

William Balley was tried yesterday on the charge of impersonating an officer, on oath of Constable Chisholm. It was alleged that Bailey entered suit before Alderman Carlisle against Mrs. McCarthy, of McKee's Rocks, for illegal liquor selling. She was fined under the act of 1855, and Bailey received half the fine. In prosecuting the case, it is claimed, Bailey represented himself to be an officer of the Lawrence Detective Agency. Constable Chisholm learning of this, brought the suit against Bailey. The jury is out.

Aldelch Convicted.

In the Criminal Court yesterday the jury in the case of Frank Aldrich, tried for "bunkoing" J. K. Lemon out of $10,000 last September, returned a verdict of guilty. Al-drich was remanded to jail for sentence. His counsel, it is stated, will move for a new trial. Legal Tender.

MISS CALLIE B. GRAHAM yesterday entered suit against Sophia Huston for $5,000 damages for slander. THE second trial of Joseph Dimey for the murder of Officer Miller, of Allegheny, was to have been commenced yesterday. It was post-poned at the request of Dimey's counsel, who claimed that they were not ready to go on with the case.

J. CHARLES DICKEN yesterday filed a bill is equity against Robert B, and Thomas C, Carson. It is claimed that in 1857 the Sheriff sold lot No. 15 of the Davis plan, en Ledlie street, Second ward, Allegheny. It was purchased by George Lindsay and is now owned by the defendants. It is held that the deed for the lot was made out wrong and that the lot intended to have been sold was lot No. 16, which was the lot taken possession of by Lindsay.

THE trial list in the Criminal Court is as follo vs. Commonwealth vs Patrick Conway 2, John L. Workman, James L. Orr, W. H. McClusky, Jacob Keefer, William Smith et al McClusky, Jacob Keefer, William Smith et al 2, Henry Lauglitz 2, Andrew Gillespie, Henry Hacklander, Joseph Reilly, William Gleason, Fred Goldstrum, John Plantz, Nick Castle.
